Happy holidays, everyone! A new year is upon us and, like many, I always head into a new year with new resolutions to better myself. Are you making resolutions? If so, I’ve listed a few books that can help you become your best self in your personal life or career.

Thank you for your continued interest in the State Library and all the services and resources that can help make your jobs easier. To start 2018, I have two webinars to help you keep up with the latest legislation and navigate the murky waters of the Census. I wish you all well in the new year!

Your Outreach and Training Librarian,
Julie Cox
573.522.2796
julie.cox@sos.mo.gov

Spotlight: Books and eBooks on Habits and Leadership
Click on the book covers above to access the book record. We have more books on these subjects available in our catalog. Don’t see what you’re looking for? Contact us for assistance.

Upcoming Webinars:

Laws and Legislation
January 24, 2018, 2 p.m.-3 p.m.
This class will introduce State Capital Universe, a LexisNexis database. This database allows keyword searching of bills, statutes and regulations from all U.S. States in one convenient environment. The class will also include explanations of search features and instructions on how to pull needed materials from this database.

Register: https://attendee.gototraining.com/r/2065837599967466242

Navigating the Census
February 21, 2018, 11 a.m.-12 p.m.
Need basic tips on navigating the Census website for data? This session provides step-by-step instructions on how to use the Census website’s American Fact Finder tool to retrieve data files from the decennial Census and the Census Bureau’s American Community Survey. Additional Census data harvesting tools are also introduced.

Register: https://attendee.gototraining.com/r/2358601262560524034

Class Requests
We provide classes and webinars upon request, which we can customize based on the research needs of your office! Class topics can include a basic overview of our services, help with legislative research material, journal and eBook access, Internet searching, and Census topics.

Questions? Contact the Outreach and Training Librarian, Julie Cox:
julie.cox@sos.mo.gov or 573.522.2796